MEMORIES OF MY FATHER

Dmitry Borisovich Kabalevsky was born in St Petersburg on 30 December 1904 and died in Moscow on 14 February 1987 at the age of 83. In his memoirs he wrote: » ... Sometimes it seems to me as if I had read about all these things somewhere. Is it possible for so much to take place within a single human lifetime? The Russo-Japanese War, the Revolution of 1905, the First World War, the February and October Revolutions, the Civil War, the Great Patriotic War ... indeed, the path I have travelled seems incredibly long ... and yet very short. I have lived so long, yet accomplished so little!«

Kabalevsky's life encompassed a long period of time in which he witnessed almost incredible changes in the history of the Russian state. He belonged to the very first generation of Soviet composers. His father, Boris Klavdiievich (1877–1939) was a mathematician, his mother Nadezha Alexandrovna (1878–1958) a private tutor. By the age of seven, when he received his first music lessons from his aunt, he knew that music would be his field of endeavour.

In 1918 the Kabalevskys moved from St Petersburg to the new capital, Moscow. There Dmitry and his elder sister Elena first attended a general education school before changing in 1919 to the school of music (renamed 'First Musical Technical College' two years later). Elena possessed a beautiful voice, but had to break off her voice training owing to vocal problems she developed during her lessons. Dmitry, on the other hand, was immediately enrolled in the third class, headed by Professor V. Selivanov, and evidently skipped the fifth class. He developed into an accomplished pianist, even teaching at the Technical College himself from 1922 to 1925. He also began to compose and entered the composition class of Professor Georgi Kantuar.

After completing his training at the Technical College, now called the 'Scriabin Institute of Music', he enrolled at Moscow Conservatory in 1925. There he studied piano with Alexander Goldenweiser and continued his studies of composition with Kantuar and, after the latter's death, with Nikolai Myaskovsky, who would become the guiding model for his own compositional style. He completed his composition degree in 1929 and his piano training one year later. Being one of the best in his class, his name was engraved on the so-called 'Golden Plaque' of Honour in the Conservatory's main auditorium.

In 1932 Kabalevsky was appointed teacher of composition at Moscow Conservatory. At the same time he began his tenure as chief reader at the Russian State Publishing Company. In 1938 he was selected to join the governing board of the steering committee of the Union of Soviet Composers. From then until the end of his life he remained deeply involved in musical developments in the Soviet Union.

In the 1930s Kabalevsky began to write music for children and to talk with them about music. In 1935 he paid his first visit to the great Young Pioneer camp in Artek. During these years of great creative activity he married for the first time and witnessed the birth of his son, Yuri. In 1937 he entered a second marriage that would last 40 years.

In 1940 Kabalevsky joined the Communist Party and was appointed editor-in-chief of the periodical Sovyetskaya Muzyka. He also served as a member of the board at Soviet Radio with responsibilities for music broadcasts (1943–1945). But he was also busy as a composer. In 1940 he completed his incidental music for Mark Daniel's children's play The Inventor and the Comedians. The suite extracted from that score, 'The Comedians' (op. 26), became one of his most popular creations. One year later he composed 'Parade of the Youth' for children's chorus and orchestra (op. 31), followed in 1942 by 'Great Motherland', a cantata for mezzo-soprano, bass, chorus and orchestra (op. 35), 'Revenger of the People' for mixed chorus and orchestra (op. 36) and the four-act opera 'In the Fire' (op. 37). These years also brought forth a large number of piano pieces and a great many songs. In 1946 he was awarded the Stalin Prize for his Second String Quartet (op. 44).

In 1948 Kabalevsky's opera 'The Taras Family' of 1944 (op. 47) received a surprisingly poor reception, and Kabalevsky and other prominent composers were subjected to accusations of formalism. In the end, however, his name was unmentioned in the final declaration of the Central Committee, and in 1951 he was awarded another Stalin Prize for, of all pieces, his op. 47. Despite the catastrophic impact of the so-called 'Zhdanov Decree' on many composers, Kabalevsky maintained his courage and composed his 'youth concertos' (1948–1950), bearing witness to joy, optimism and vitality. In 1948 he received yet another Stalin Prize, this time for his Concerto for Violin and Orchestra (op. 48).

In the years that followed, Kabalevsky's administrative and political duties increased. He was made vice-president of the London Music Workers Association and held a professorship at Moscow Conservatory. He also served as a member of the Committee for the Defence of Peace, the governing board of the Soviet Ministry of Culture, the World Peace Council, the International Music Council and the Council of Directors of the International Society of Music Education. In 1954 he founded the youth division of the Union of Soviet Composers.

Yet the magnitude of these activities and functions did not hinder his creative work. His list of compositions includes 103 opus numbers, 150 songs and 136 piano pieces for children, plus music for 13 films and 18 plays. During the final decade of his life he devoted himself entirely to his musical education programme at schools of general education. In 1973 he founded the Music Education Laboratory, and he taught music at schools for seven years.

Dmitry Borisovich Kabalevsky died while returning home from a meeting of high-ranking officials at the Kremlin. He was buried in Novodevichy Cemetery in Moscow.

ERINNERUNGEN AN MEINEN VATER

Dmitri Borisovitsch Kabalewski kam am 30. Dezember 1904 in St. Petersburg zur Welt und starb in Moskau am 14. Februar 1987 im Alter von 83 Jahren. In seinen Erinnerungen schrieb er »... Manchmal scheint es mir, als hätte ich über all dies irgendwo gelesen. Ist es möglich, das so viel innerhalb nur eines Menschenlebens geschenhen ist? – Der Russisch-Japanische Krieg, die Revolution von 1905, der Erste Weltkrieg, die Februar- und die Oktoberrevolution, der Bürgerkrieg, der Große Vaterländische Krieg ... ja, der Weg, den ich zurückgelegt habe scheint unglaublich lang ... doch auch wiederum sehr kurz – ich habe so lang gelebt und doch so wenig vollbracht! ...«

Kabalewskis Leben umfasst eine lange Zeitspanne, in der er Zeuge von geradezu unglaublichen Veränderungen in der Geschichte des russischen Staates wurde. Er gehört zu der allerersten Generation Sowjetischer Komponisten. Sein Vater, Boris Klavdiewitsch (1877–1939), war Mathematiker und seine Mutter, Nadeschda Alexandrowna (1878–1958) betätigte sich als Hauslehrerin. Bereits im Alter von sieben Jahren, als er ersten Musikunterricht von seiner Tante erhielt, wurde Dmitri klar, dass sein Betätigungsfeld die Musik sein würde.

Im Jahr 1918 zogen die Kabalewskis von St. Petersburg in die neue Hauptstadt Moskau, wo Dmitri und seine ältere Schwester Elena zunächst eine allgemeinbildende Schule besuchten, bevor beide 1919 in die Musikschule wechselten, die zwei Jahre später in ‚Erstes Musikalisches Technikum‘ umbenannt wurde. Elena besaß eine schöne Stimme, musste ihre Gesangsausbildung jedoch aufgrund von Stimmproblemen, die sie sich beim Unterricht zugezogen hatte, abbrechen. Dmitri dagegen wurde direkt in die dritte Klasse von Prof. V. Seliwanow aufgenommen und übersprang anschließend die fünfte Klasse. Er entwickelte sich zu einem begabten Pianisten und zwischen 1922 und 1925 gab er auch selbst Klavierunterricht am Technikum. Gleichzeitig begann er zu komponieren und ging in die Kompositionsklasse von Prof. Georgi Kantuar.

Nach Abschluss seiner Ausbildung am Technikum, das mittlerweile in ‚Skjabin Musikinstitut‘ umbenannt worden war, wurde er 1925 am Mokauer Konservatorium aufgenommen, wo er Klavier bei Alexander Goldenweiser und Komposition zunächst weiter bei Kantuar und, nach dessen Tod, dann bei Nikolai Mjaskowski studierte. Mjaskowski wurde zum prägenden Vorbild für Kabalewskis Kompositionsstil. 1929 schloss er sein Kompositionstudium ab und ein Jahr später beendete er auch seine pianistische Ausbildung – als einer der Jahrgangsstärken wurde sein Name auf die sogenannte goldene Ehrentafel im zentralen Saal des Konservatoriums gesetzt.

1932 wurde er zum Kompositionsdozenten am Moskauer Konservatorium ernannt und begann zeitgleich seine Tätigkeit als Cheflektor des Russischen Staatsverlages. 1938 wurde er ins Präsidium des Organisationskomitees im Komponistenverband der UdSSR gewählt. Von da an blieb Kabalewski bis an sein Lebensende eng mit der musikalischen Entwicklung in der Sowjetunion verbunden.

In den 30er Jahren begann er, Musik für Kinder zu schreiben und mit ihnen über Musik zu sprechen. Im Jahr 1935 besuchte er zum ersten Mal das große Pionierlager von Artek. In dieser kompositorisch sehr aktiven Zeit heiratete er ein erstes Mal und 1931 wurde sein Sohn Juri geboren. Die zweite, 1937 geschlossene Ehe sollte 40 Jahre bestehen.

Im Jahr 1940 trat Dmitri Kabalewski der Kommunistischen Partei bei und wurde noch im gleichen Jahr zum Chefredakteur der Zeitschrift „Sowjetskaja Muzyka“ ernannt. Daneben war er zwischen 1943 und 1945 als Vorstandsmitglied im Soujetischen Rundfunk für Musiksendungen verantwortlich. Gleichzeitig führte er seine kompositorische Arbeit intensiv fort. 1940 vollendete er die Musik zu Mark Daniels Kinderstück „Der Erfinder und die Komödianten“. Die daraus hervorgegangene „Komödiantensuite op. 26“ wurde zu einem von Kabalewskis populärsten Stücken. Ein Jahr später entstand „Parade der Jugend“ für Kinderchor und Orchester op. 31. 1942 folgten „Das große Vaterland“, Kantate für Mezzosopran, Bass, Chor und Orchester op. 35, „Rächer des Volkes“ für gem. Chor und Orchester op. 36 sowie „Im Feuer“, Oper in 4 Akten op. 37. Daneben entstand eine Reihe von Klavierwerken und zahlreiche Lieder. 1946 wurde er mit dem Stalinpreis für sein zweites Streichquartett op. 44 geehrt.

1948 erfuhr seine Oper „Die Familie Taras“ op. 47 aus dem Jahr 1944 eine überraschend negative Aufnahme und gegen Kabalewski und eine Reihe anderer prominenter Komponisten wurde der Vorwurf des „Formalismus“ erhoben – letztendlich blieb sein Name in der Schlusserklärung der Zentralkomitees jedoch unerwähnt, und 1951 wurde ausgerechnet sein Opus 47 dann doch noch mit einem Stalinpreis ausgezeichnet. Trotz der katastrophalen Folgen, die das sogenannten Schdanow-Dekret für zahlreiche Komponisten hatte, ließ sich Kabalewski nicht entmutigen und komponierte zwischen 1948 und 1950 seine „Jugendkonzerte“, die von Freude, Optimismus und Vitalität zeugen. Erneut erhielt der Komponist im Jahr 1948 einen Stalinpreis – diesmal für das Konzert für Violine und Orchester op. 48.

In den folgenden Jahren nahm der Umfang von Kabalewskis administrativen und politischen Aufgaben noch zu. Man wählte ihn zum Vizepräsidenten der Musikvereinigung der Londoner Arbeiter, er hatte eine Professur am Moskauer Konservatorium inne, war Mitglied des Komitees zur Verteidigung des Friedens, des Kollegiums des Kultusministeriums der UdSSR, des Weltfriedensrates, des Internationalen Musikrates und des Rates der Direktoren der Internationalen Gesellschaft für Musikerziehung. 1954 gründete er die Jugendabteilung des Sowjetischen Komponistenverbandes.

Die Fülle dieser Tätigkeiten und Funktionen hinderten ihn jedoch nicht an seiner kompositorischen Arbeit. Sein Werkverzeichnis umfasst 103 Opusnummern, 150 Lieder und 136 Klavierstücke für Kinder. Dazu kommt Musik zu 13 Filmen und 18 Bühnenstücken. Während seines letzten Lebensjahrzehnts widmete er sich gänzlich seinem Programm zur Musikerziehung an allgemeinbildenden Schulen. 1973 gründete er das „Laboratorium zur Musikerziehung“ und unterrichtete für 7 Jahre als Musiklehrer an Schulen.

Dmitri Borisowitsch Kabalewski starb auf dem Heimweg von einem Treffen hochrangiger Funktionäre im Kreml. Er wurde auf dem moskauer Nowodewitschi-Friedhof beigesetzt.

INTRODUCTION

Dmitry Kabalevsky was born in St Petersburg on 30/17 December 1904. His father was a mathematician with a keen interest in literature and art. The boy began at an early age to improvise at the piano but his musical training had to wait until the family moved to Moscow in 1918. He then earned degrees from the Scriabin School of Music (1925) and Moscow Conservatory (1929), where he studied piano with Alexander Goldenweiser and composition with Georgy Catoire and Nikolai Myaskovsky. While at Moscow Conservatory he joined the Production Collective of Student Composers (PROKULL), an organization with the aim of turning out proletarian music. He also served as managing director of a music school, played piano in a motion picture theatre and in a children's theatre led by stage director Natalia Sats, and appeared in public as a soloist and chamber musician in his own compositions. His first success as a composer of "serious music" came with his Piano Concerto no. 1 in A minor, op. 9 (1928), performed at the Bolshoy Theatre on 11 December 1931.

Beginning in the 1930s Kabalevsky became a teacher and organizer of music for film, theatre and radio. These years witnessed the writing of his Symphony no. 1 in C-sharp minor, op. 18 (1932), Symphony no. 3 in B-flat minor (a requiem for the tenth anniversary of Lenin's death, 1933) and the highly successful opera Colas Breugnon, op. 24 (1936-38), after Romain Rolland's like-named novel.

From 1930 Kabalevsky taught music theory and composition at Moscow Conservatory, where he became an official staff member in 1932 and a professor in 1939. Among his pupils were Sergey Balasanian, Alexander Pirumov and Myroslav Skoryk. From 1940 to 1946 he was editor-in-chief of the periodical Sovetskaya Muzyka; he also had a leading position at All-Union Radio (1943-45) and headed the music chapter of the Art History Institute in the Academy of Sciences (1949-52). Having joined the Communist Party in 1940, he also served in the governing body Union of Soviet Composers (from 1939), becoming its secretary in 1952, and assumed various functions at the Ministry of Culture from 1954.

During the Second World War patriotic themes became increasingly important for Kabalevsky's compositional work. Among the results were the operas In the Fire, op. 37 (1942), after a libretto by Caesar Solodar, and The Taras Family, op. 47 (1947-50), on motifs from Boris Gorbatov's novel The Unvanquished. War and anti-fascism also formed themes in his chamber music, e.g. in String Quartet no. 2 in G minor, op. 44 (1945), Piano Sonata no. 2 in E-flat major, op. 45 (1945), and Piano Sonata no. 3 in F major, op. 46 (1946). After 1945 Kabalevsky turned increasingly to music education in books, lectures and radio broadcasts. In 1959 he visited the United States along with Dmitry Shostakovich and Tikhon Khrennikov. Beginning in 1973 he joined forces with music teachers to work out a curriculum for music instruction at elementary schools based on the three pillars of song, dance and march, with the goal of teaching pupils to listen attentively. He died in Moscow on 17 February 1987, having received his country's highest honors.

Kabalevsky's early music is marked by a late-romantic idiom prevalent in Russia at the time, as in Three Preludes for piano, op. 1 (1925), Three Poems for voice and piano on poems by Alexander Blok, op. 4 (1927), and Piano Sonata no. 1 in F major, op. 6 (1927). He took no part in the current experiments of contemporary music. In the years around 1930 he shifted to a neoclassical style, best exemplified by his Piano Sonatina in C major, op. 13, no. 1 (1930, rev. 1969). Thereafter his works were dominated by so-called 'realistic elements' (e.g. simplicity of expression, clarity, intelligibility, and traditional genres "fitting for a democratic society") that would remain characteristic of his entire oeuvre. For instance, his Twenty-four Preludes for piano, op. 38 (1943), dedicated to his teacher Nikolai Myaskovsky, make use of a folk song from the collections compiled by Rimsky-Korsakov, Balakirev and Liadov. For his arrangement he followed the advice given to him by Sergei Prokofiev: "Develop the folk themes as if they were your own melodies!"

Kabalevsky's triptych of concertos for the Soviet youth has entered the standard repertoire – Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in C major, op. 48 (1948), Concerto no. 1 for Cello and Orchestra in G minor, op. 49 (1948-49), and Concerto no. 3 for Piano and Orchestra in D major, op. 50 (1952) – as has the Concerto for Cello and Orchestra no. 2 in C minor, op. 77 (1964), dedicated to Daniil Shafran. The slow movement of the Third Piano Concerto quotes the song "Our Country," frequently sung at youth festivals. The Second Cello Concerto alters the traditional dramatic structure of the sequence of movements: the sustained opening movement and the finale, headed Andante, frame the central second movement (Presto marcato), the main theme of which is entrusted to an alto saxophone.

Even more than his operas, cantatas, and symphonies, it is these concertos, as well as his chamber music, piano pieces and a few theatre and film scores, with their tuneful melodies, flexible rhythms, and unconventional and surprising harmonic sideslips, that constitute Kabalevsky's specific legacy to the history of Soviet music.

EINFÜHRUNG

Dmitri Kabalewski wurde am 30. (17.) Dezember 1904 in St. Petersburg als Sohn eines an Literatur und Kunst interessierten Mathematikers geboren. Früh begann er am Klavier zu improvisieren – seine musikalische Ausbildung erhielt er dann in Moskau, wohin die Familie 1918 übersiedelt war. 1925 absolvierte er die Skrjabin-Musikfachschule, 1929 das Moskauer Konservatorium (Klavier bei Alexander Goldenweiser, Komposition bei Georgi Catoire und Nikolai Mjaskowski). Kabalewski beteiligte sich am Produktionskollektiv der Studenten des Moskauer Konservatoriums (PRO-KOLL), das seine Aufgabe in der Komposition proletarischer Musik sah. In seiner Studienzeit war er außerdem u.a. Geschäftsführer einer Musikfachschule sowie Klavierbegleiter in einem Kino und im Kindertheater der Regisseurin Natalia Sats. Solistisch und als Kammermusikpartner trat er auch mit eigenen Werken auf. Einen ersten Erfolg als Komponist „seriöser“ Musik erreichte er am 11. Dezember 1931 im Bolschoi-Theater mit seinem Konzert für Klavier und Orchester Nr. 1 in a-moll op. 9 (1928).

Seit den 30er-Jahren betätigte sich Kabalewski als Pädagoge und Organisator sowie als Komponist von Musik für Film, Theater und Funk. Es entstanden u.a. die Sinfonie Nr. 1 cis-moll op. 18 (1932), zu Lenins zehntem Todestag die Sinfonie Nr. 3 „Requiem“ b-moll (1933) sowie die sehr erfolgreiche Oper Colas Breugnon op. 24 (1936-1938) nach Romain Rollands gleichnamigem Roman.

Ab 1930 unterrichtete Kabalewski musiktheoretische Fächer und Komposition am Moskauer Konservatorium – 1932 wurde er offiziell zum Dozenten ernannt, 1939 dann zum Professor. Zu seinen Schülern zählten Sergei Balassjan, Alexander Pirumow und Miroslaw Skorik. Von 1940 bis 1946 wirkte er als Chefredakteur der Zeitschrift Sovetskaya Muzyka, zeitgleich zwischen 1943 und 1945 hatte er eine leitende Funktion am Allunions-Rundfunk inne und von 1949 bis 1952 leitete er die Sektion Musik am Institut für Kunstgeschichte der Akademie der Wissenschaften. Darüber hinaus gehörte Kabalewski, der 1940 in die KPdSU eingetreten war, bereits seit 1939 dem Präsidium des Komponistenverbandes des Sowjetunion an und wurde 1952 dessen Sekretär. Ab 1954 übernahm er auch Funktionen im Kultusministerium.

Während des Zweiten Weltkriegs gewannen patriotische Themen für sein Komponieren an Bedeutung. Es entstanden u.a. die Opern Im Feuer (Vor Moskau) op. 37 (1942) auf ein Libretto von Caesar Solodar und Die Familie des Taras op. 47 (1947-1950) nach Motiven des Romans „Die Unbeugsamen“ von Boris Gorbatow. Krieg und Antifaschismus thematisierte er auch in Kammermusikwerken – etwa im Streichquartett Nr. 2 g-moll op. 44 (1945) oder in den Sonaten für Klavier Nr. 2 Es-dur op. 45 (1945) und Nr. 3 F-dur op. 46 (1946). Nach 1945 engagierte sich Kabalewski verstärkt im Bereich der Musikerziehung (Bücher, Vorträge, Radiosendungen). 1959 besuchte er gemeinsam mit Dmitri Schostakowitsch und Tichon Chrennikow die USA. Mit Musikpädagogen erarbeitete er seit 1973 einen Lehrplan für den Musikunterricht an Grundschulen, der sich, auf die Grundpfeiler Lied, Tanz und Marsch gestützt, besonders die Höherziehung zum Ziel setzte. Durch hohe und höchste Auszeichnungen geehrt, starb Kabalewski am 17. Februar 1987 in Moskau.

Kabalewskis frühes Schaffen ist durch einen im damaligen Russland vorherrschenden spätromantischen Gestus geprägt. Dies ist etwa an den Drei Präludien für Klavier op. 1 (1925), den Drei Gedichten für Singstimme und Klavier op. 4 auf Texte von Alexander Blok (1927) und der Sonate für Klavier Nr. 1 F-dur op. 6 (1927) abzulesen. An den Experimenten neuer Musik hatte er keinen Anteil. Um 1930 vollzog er den Übergang zu einer neoklassizistischen Stilistik – am bekanntesten wurde in diesem Zusammenhang die Sonatine für Klavier C-dur op. 13,1 (1930/1969). Seither dominierten in seinem Komponieren die sogenannten ‚realistischen Elemente‘ (Einfachheit des Ausdrucks, Klarheit, Fasslichkeit, traditionelle, ‚demokratisch rezipierbare‘ Gattungen etc.), die für sein Œuvre insgesamt charakteristisch blieben. So thematisierte Kabalewski in jeden der seinem Lehrer Nikolai Mjaskowski gewidmeten 24 Präludien für Klavier op. 38 (1943) ein Volkslied, das er den Sammlungen Rimski-Korsakows, Balakirews und Ljadows entnommen hatte. Bei der Bearbeitung folgte er einem Rat, den ihm Sergej Prokofjew gegeben hatte: „Entwickeln Sie die Volksthemen so, als wären es Ihre eigenen Melodien!“

Ins Konzertrepertoire eingegangen ist die der sowjetischen Jugend gewidmete Trias von Instrumentalkonzerten: das Konzert für Violine und Orchester C-dur op. 48 (1948), das Konzert für Violoncello und Orchester Nr. 1 g-moll op. 49 (1948/1949), das Konzert für Klavier und Orchester Nr. 3 D-dur op. 50 (1952) sowie das Daniil Schafran gewidmete Konzert für Violoncello und Orchester Nr. 2 c-moll op. 77 (1964). Im langsamen Satz des dritten Klavierkonzerts zitiert Kabalewski das auf Jugendfestivals vielfach intonierte Lied ‚Unser Land‘. Im zweiten Violoncellokonzert variiert der Komponist die traditionelle Dramaturgie der Satzabfolge: Der verhaltene Eröffnungssatz und das mit Andante überschriebene Finale umrahmen den zentralen zweiten Satz (Presto marcato), dessen Hauptthema dem Altsaxophon anvertraut ist.

Mehr als seine patriotischen Opern, Kantaten und Sinfonien bilden diese Konzerte, aber auch seine Kammer- und Klaviermusik sowie einige seiner Bühnen- und Filmmusiken, die von eingängiger Melodik, elastischer Rhythmisierung und von originellen und überraschenden Tonarückzügen geprägt sind, ein spezifisches Erbe der sowjetischen Musikgeschichte.

Originally Op. 3, composed in 1927, the suite consisted of an only partially published series of easy piano pieces for children. Five of these miniatures appeared in 1931 as From Pioneer Life, Op. 14. A piece from Op. 3 was inserted as third movement into the Sonatina, Op. 13,2 and a vast number from this early collection was published as Thirty Pieces for Children, Op. 27 in 1938 and 1939. In 1968 remaining pieces and sketches from Op. 3 were merged into In the Pioneer Camp, Op. 3/86 introducing 'Through Forests and Mountains', which was extracted from Op. 13,2.

The revisions by the composer made in 1973 left the overall structure of the concerto untouched – but a considerable number of additions and alterations concerning the orchestral accompaniment were introduced and a few modifications of the soloist's part were added (aside from one extra bar in the cadenza of the opening movement the alterations concern mainly the second movement).

► ARRANGEMENT for two pianos by the composer.

After the composer's death Mstislav Rostropovich completed piano score and solo part. This applies especially for the only sketched final movement whose tonal plan and musical development had been indicated to Rostropovich by Prokofiev. Preceding the première of Op. 132 with Dmitri Kabalevsky's orchestration in 1960, the Concertino was performed for the first time on 29 December 1956 in the Small Hall of the Moscow Conservatory by Mstislav Rostropovich accompanied by pianist Alexander Dedyukhin.
